WHAT OUR NEIGHBORS THINK OF HIM.

The following from the Macon Democrat, shows what Democrats elsewhere than in the Second district think of "Riley" Hall.

U. S. Hall's Conversion.

Mr. Hall seems to feel restless under the severe criticism he is universally receiving from the Democrats of the state. It is not Mr. Hall's personal importance that is calling this forth, but his base treason in deserting on the field of battle and turning his guns against his former dollar after it was coined; thus caus friends. A traitor, however, personally of little importance, is always able to arouse the righteous indignation of honest hearts by the bare mention of his name or deeds. Mr Hall's conversion, like that of many others of the cuckoo contingent, would command more respect and consideration had not the arguments that caused his conversion been presented to him after he had experienced a change of heart. This second blessing that the cuckoos are receiving can in almost all cases be traced to personal benefit to self or relatives without any regard to the party or to the people at large.

Mr. Hall's letter to the Republic does everything but mark him as an honest student. His shameless perversion of Jefferson's declaration, wresting it from its appropriate place and making it do, and so poorly, too, duty in the very cause this noble Democrat was at that time and to his death combating, does no credit to Mr. Hall either as Democrat or a student.

Mr. Hall has never been of any importance in politice, ar anywhere else as far as that is concerned, except the little given to him by his connection with the Farmers' alliance, whose cause he has as basely betrayed as he has that of the Democracy.

A Famous Author's Religion.

Mrs. Amelia E. Barr writes to the ditor of The Ladies' Home Journal as follows: "I believe in God my Father and Preserver. I believe in Jesus Christ my redeemer. I believe in the Holy Ghost my Enlightener and Consoler. I believe in the forgiveness of sine, in the Tesurrection of the body and in the life everlasting. I believe in the Holy Bible, from its first letter to its last, as the Word of God to me. At my side lies a Bible three hundred years old, filled with the annotations and confirmation of my ancestors, who not only read it, but thought it worth their while to fight for the right to do so. I would do the same to-day, if an occasion demanded it. I want no 'revised' Bible. I want no 'woman's Bible. The Bible of the martyre and confessors of our faith is sufficient. It has never deceived and failed me. It has been sufficient for lite; I doubt not it will be sufficient for the hour and article of death.

"If you ask me about my creed. I answer, I am an Episcopalian; but I worshiped happily with Presbyterians for 20 years, and could have done the same with Methodists, Baptists, Quakers, etc., etc. My convictions sway decidedly to the 'Inner Light' of Quakerism-the Light greater even than the Word-'the Light that lighteth every man that | cury : cometh into the world;' but I find good in all denominations.

"I have gone seldom to church lately, because I want only 'an oldashioned clergyman,' antiquated,' 'slow'-that is, I want a minister who will preach the Gospel, and not politics, prohibitiou, sanitary science, etc. If I could find a minister with the Gospel lodged in a large heart, love-fraught, self-denying, making Christ Jesus the luminous centre and the very effulgence of his life and teachings, I would go to hear him every day. But I do not respect the 'new minister' any more than I respect the 'new woman.' I am so old-fashioned that I cannot comprehend how a man may dedicate himself to preaching Christ, assume the title of Reverend as a mark of his sacred calling, and then give at least six-sevenths of his time to running a milk farm or a boarding establishment. But I recognize the variability of human creatures, and if others find these guides sufficient I do not presume to judge t , of near Ha the intercession of Clases struck by hipotence of prayer. What mc.lacan a soul need or desire?"

THE Horr-Harvey debate has es tablished the fact that the unit value was to be called a dollar, but they have not yet decided of what it was to be made. The only inference that can be drawn is that it should be a "dollar", either of gold or eilver, and that the ratio was calculated on the commercial value of the two met als, and that an error was made in that too much silver was used in the silver dollar, causing the uncoined bullion to be worth more than the ing the silver to all leave the country. Now to make the silver dollar the unit of value with the commercial value of the metal contained in it so much less than the coined value would have the same effect on gold and drive it from the country as eil ver was driven under like circumstances, and we would have only the oilver left .- K. When the Nez Perces Indians re ceived their money from the government for the reservation lands recent ly opened to settlement they went as is the custom of red men under such circumstances, at once to the nearest town to spend it. A large number went to Farmington, Wash. and were taken with a craze for buying buggies and wagons. One old Indian, having a large allowance, could not find a vehicle that seemed to comport with his wealth. but finally wandered to the undertaker's stable and immediately fell in love with the hearse and wanted to buy it. The undertaker was astounded, but, being a man of business, sold it for a good round sum. The Indian loaded his squaw and papooses into it, and climbing on ily or dogs inside.

Why I Favor Silver.

James M. Head in New York Mer

"I favor the free coinage of silver because the best and most reliable statistics obtainable prove conclusively that there is not gold enough in existence to answer the demands of commerce as money of ultimate redemption, and for the further reason that the supply of gold is sufficiently limited to enable a comparatively small combination of capitalists to control the money markets of the world with gold as the single termined whether gold has risen or standard of values.

the further reason that statistics or the silver dollar, or of both, to the show that the increased production end that whatever ratio is adopted of gold and silver is not equal to the the rights of both creditor and debincrease in population and the increase in business activity due to re cent discoveries and inventions.

I also favor the free coinage of sil ver because the obligations of the ometalism, but that both should be United States government are pay- coined at such ratio as will maintain able in "coin," which, it is conceded, the two metals in circulation." means gold and silver at the present ratio of 16 to 1, and it is noted If more nor less than a crime to oue rned the coinage of onesel these meaven thereby rendering the paymenthich these obligations doubly heavy plaon the tax-payers of the country.

If evidence were necessary to establish the correctness of the first proposition, the Shylock's bargain en tered into between Cleveland, Carlisle & company, and the Morgan-Roths child syndicate will forever stand as an unanswered and unanswerable argument as to the ability of "gold hoarders" to corner the market just as soon as the country suspended the coinage of silver, even under the limited provisions of the Sherman bill, and that this syndicate has been and is still able to carry out the unholy alliance entered into with the representatives of the government is continued and conclusive proof of the fact that the gold market of the world is subject to the control of a few men whose interests are necessarily antagonistic to the best interests o the whole people.

As there never has been, and never can be, an international money, and as all commerce between different nations is necessarily carried on by means of barter and exchange, the commodity to be used as money by one nation is a matter of secondary importance, provided there be a sufficient supply. In all international commerce gold and silver only pass current as so many ounces and pounds, and not as dollars and cents.

As all the legislation for the past thirty years has been in the interest of the creditor class, it is about time that the welfare of the masses of the people should receive some consideration, and the debtors of the country be given the opportunity of redeeming their obligations according ions of scrubs never will command to the terms of the contract and the top prices. Grade up and prepare to laws in force at the time the obligations were created. If this is not done the time is not far distant when the pursuit of a different policy will simply result in "killing the goose that laid the golden egg.'"

In 1884 the platform said: "We believe in honest money, the gold and silver coinage of the constitution and a circulating mediam convertible into such money without loss." In 1888 the platform simply re-affirmed what was said four years before. In 1892 the convention said: "We hold to both gold and silver as the standard money of the country and to the coinage of both dd end silver without discrimi nation against either metal or charge for mintage, but the dollar unit of coinage of both metals must be of equal intrinsic and exchangeable hall be kept at par with and redeemable in such coin."

Missouri Democratic platform, passed at Kansas City, May 15,

"We declare it to be a duty enjoined upon congress by the constitution to coin both gold and silver money for people of the United States, that congress has no rightful power to refuse the coinage of either metal.

We, therefore, demand the free bimetallic coinage of both gold and laws for over forty-eight years prior to the demonetization of the standard silver dollar of 1873, and should it become necessary in order to maintain the two metals in circulation to to re-adjust the ratio, it should be desilver has fallen, and whether there I favor the free coinage of silver tor should be a change of the gold dollar. tor shall be preserved alike, having in view the demands of the people for an adequate circulating medium. The Return of Prosperity.

The golden harvest and promise of abundant corn and fall crops with the fine rains makes glad the heart of the western farmer. After a long time of depression, good crops and good prices have dawned upon us agair, and the lesson of depression will bless the land more abundantly in the utilizing of the thousands of acres of corn fodder heretofore wasted, in increasing the variety of our crops and in improving our stock. The old shiftless ways and scrub stock have been forced to give place to better methods and improved

The boom in commercial and in dustrial interests has advanced wages and given employment to the vast armies of unemployed. Prices of products in every department are advancing as the industrial interests develop their strength and regain their loss from the depression. The prospect for good crops has encouraged the merchant and manufacturer, and the world moves again to regain the lost time. Improvement and progress is bounding into prosperity in the factory and on the

The farmer must plan to reap his share of prosperity by improving all his stock up to the top of the market as prices advance.
